hours yesterday. The storm of the previous night had so badly crippled the wire connection with the East and North that practically no information from outside markets reached here until after noon. From a purely local standpoint, conditions were bullish at the outset. Weather conditions were generally unfavorable for the growing crop, and receipts were extremely light. This caused enough buying to keep speculative values on the upturn until information from the usual sources began to come in. The first news received was that Liverpool was strong and that there was a good foreign demand for American breadstuffs. When connection with Chicago was established it was found that buying had been heavy there all morning. The local market was further strengthened by reports of sales of 125,600 bushels of contract wheat to Southwestern millers. May wheat opened 5 c up and closed 5 c up.

Corn was practically neglected throughout the session. In the absence of outside information traders preferred to hold off. There was slight advance at the close in sympa-

Most of the trading in grain in the local narket yesterday was crowded into the last lour. Prior to noon there was little news nour. Prior to noon there was little news on which to base future values because of the fact that the storm had destroyed wire connections between St. Louis and most other important domestic centers. About the only thing known at the opening was in the session reports of heavy cash sale to Southwestern millers, higher cables and an advance in Chicago caused a rush 10 and the market closed decidedly strong.
